3.20.5 Definitions

Cessation of Work - So serious and immediate or imminent risk of harm, for the purpose of HSR Cessation of Unsafe Work immediately without the need to consult with the management, include any risks that are foreseeable to immediately or imminently lead to a death of a person or a serious illness and injury of a person or a dangerous incident [See Chapter 3.16 for definition]. See Appendix D.2 for a schematic flow chart.

Cessation of Work - Serious risk of harm to a worker emanating from an immediate or imminent exposure to a hazard, for the purpose of HSR Cessation of Unsafe Work after consultation with the management, include any serious risks of harm that are due to immediate or imminent exposure to a hazard. In this case, the HSR may only direct the cessation of unsafe work after consultation with the management of the Work Group or going through the Agreed Issue Resolution Process. See Appendix D.2 for a schematic flow chart.

Consultation is a two-way process between the University and workers where both parties:

- Communicate to each other about health and safety matters;
- Listen to each other's concerns and raise their own concerns;
- Seek and share views and information; and
- Consider what the worker's say before the University makes decisions.

Consultation does not mean telling workers about a health and safety decision or action after it has been taken. Consultation does not require consensus or agreement between workers but must allow workers to contribute to any health and safety decisions to be made in the University/College/School/Division.

Eligible workers for HSR Nomination in a Work Group include all workers who are members of that Work Group, except:

- Senior Management (e.g. School/Division Directors, Deputy Directors, Deputy Chief People Officers and School/General Managers);
- WHS Officers/Managers/Consultants/Advisors; and
- Any previous HSRs that are disqualified by a court or tribunal if satisfied that the HSR exercised a power or performed a function for an improper purpose or used or disclosed any information acquired by them for an improper purpose.

Other management positions (e.g. Lab managers or team leaders) may be eligible to be nominated as a HSR in their capacity as a worker of the Work Group and be elected by workers of the Work Group. However, these positions also hold specific WHS duties and hence they must be able to demonstrate clearly, if they are elected, in which cases they are performing their WHS duties as a manager and in which cases they are representing workers of the Work Group. They must be excluded from performing the HSR role if in anyway, any cases or any situations they may be involved in responding to workers on behalf of the University.

Health and Safety Representatives (HSR) mean the health and safety representatives elected under Part 5 of the WHS Act 2011 (Cth) for the Work Group to represent all workers of that Work Group on matters affecting their health and safety. HSRs can only be elected for the Work Group they belong to. The HSR holds a term of office for 3 years unless the HSR resigns; or cease to be a worker of the Work Group; or disqualified by a court or tribunal; or removed by the majority of workers of the Work Group.

Local areas mean Schools, Colleges, and Service Divisions of ANU.

Local WHS Committees are a series of consultative WHS Committees at the College, Portfolio and School levels. These committees can be established by the University's own initiatives or by the request from workers or HSRs in accordance with 3.20.2.3.1. These committees may or may not be on the University's WHS Governance Structure as per determined by University WHS Committee and if they do, the Chairs or a representative will be a member of University WHS Committee.

The functions of the Local WHS Committees include:

- ☐ To facilitate co-operation between the University and workers in instigating, developing, and carrying out measures designed to ensure the workers' health and safety at work;

- Assist in developing, if required, local specific rules (e.g. facility rules, lab rules, OGTR rules) and safe work procedures (e.g. afterhours work or bikes in office) in accordance with hazard management approach, relating to health and safety that are to be followed or complied with at the workplace. However, these committees are NOT developing, or assist in developing, its own WHS Management System or associated forms/templates;
- Implementing the University WHS Management System via the Handbook guidance; and
- Any other duties specified in the Charter of the Local WHS Committees and in the relevant WHS legislation.

Supervisors for the purpose of this chapter mean employees of ANU who have supervisory responsibilities of a person. This includes line managers and academic supervisors.

University WHS Committee is a management committee of the University established by its own initiative. It governs and makes decisions on key WHS matters for the University and is responsible for ensuring the implementation of the University WHS Management System alongside with its Charter.

Welfare facilities mean things provided for the welfare of workers, such as toilets, drinking water, washing facilities, dining areas, change rooms, personal storage and first aid.

Workers are anyone who carries out work for the University and includes staff, Visiting and Honorary Appointments (VaHA), volunteers, titleholders, affiliates, labour hiring workers, students gaining work experience and contractors of ANU. HDR students may be ANU workers depending on their role, but they are covered under the scope of this chapter.

Work Group means a group determined in accordance with WHS Act 2012 (Cth) Part 5 Division 3 Subdivision 2 to facilitate the representation of workers, negotiated between the University and its workers. A workgroup may be determined for workers at 1 or more workplace and may have 1 or more health and safety representatives.

3.20.6 Performance Measures

The University will use the performance measures listed below to assist in identifying areas of success and/or where corrective action is required to meet the objectives and targets of this process.

The level of compliance with the chapter and effectiveness will be determined during the internal audit process in turn to determine the compliance with WHSMS. Local areas can use below as a guide to improve compliance
